Seasonally Adjusted and Unadjusted Data

The Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, announced today that during March 1973, seasonally adjusted exports, excluding Department of Defense (DOD) Military Assistance Program Grant-Aid shipments, amounted to $5,379.5 million[1] [2] and that seasonally adjusted general imports for March amounted to $5,432.1 million.[1] [2] Comparable seasonally adjusted totals for February were $5,064.6 million for exports and $5,540.8 million for imports.

The Bureau, part of the Department's Social and Economic Statistics Administration (SESA), noted that based on seasonally adjusted figures a merchandise trade deficit of $52.6 million[1] [2] was recorded for March, the lowest such total since September 1971, the last month for which a surplus was recorded. The deficit for the first quarter 1973 was $832.6 million. This compares to a fourth quarter 1972 deficit of $1,523.0 million and an average quarterly deficit during all of 1972 of $1,584.1 million.

The Bureau also stated that March seasonally adjusted exports were the highest on record, exceeding the previous high (February 1973) by about $315 million. Although seasonally adjusted imports declined from the record high level of February, March represented the fifth successive month in which imports have amounted to $5.0 billion or more.

During the first 3 months of 1973, seasonally adjusted exports were at an annual rate of $61,685 million (about 25 percent above the calendar year 1972 total of $49,208 million). Imports were at an annual rate of $65,016 million (about 17 percent above the calendar year 1972 total of $55,555 million).

For the 4-month period December 1972 - March 1973, seasonally adjusted exports were at an annual rate of $59,945 million, exceeding by about 16 percent the annual rate of $51,502 million recorded during the preceding 4-month period, August-November 1972. Imports on a seasonally adjusted basis were at an annual rate of $63,766 million during the current 4 months, exceeding by about 11 percent the annual rate of $57,612 million recorded during the preceding 4 months.

Seasonally adjusted export and import totals for selected Schedule A and B commodity sections and divisions are shown in tables 4 and 5. (Unlike the overall total, the commodity components for exports exclude foreign merchandise and include DOD Military Assistance Program Grant-Aid shipments.)

Exports unadjusted for seasonal change and excluding Military Assistance Program Grant-Aid shipments increased from $4,864.0 million in February to $5,922.8 million in March. With Military Assistance Program Grant-Aid shipments included, March exports were valued at $5,975.7 million as compared to $4,900.6 million in February. Unadjusted general imports amounted to $4,944.6 million in February and $5,595.6 million in March.

[1] Adjusted for seasonal and working-day variation, but not for price level. Factors used to adjust 1972 and 1973 data shown in this report represent seasonal adjustment factors derived from monthly data for 1958-1972 and introduced in January 1973 combined with the appropriate working-day adjustment factors.

[2] Cumulations of data over at least 3- or 4-month periods are desirable to identify underlying trends. Month-to-month changes in exports, imports, and similar series often reflect primarily irregular movements, differences in monthly carryover, etc. Recent month-to-month percent changes in the overall seasonally adjusted export and import series are presented in the following table with average percent month-to-month rise and decline over longer periods shown for comparison. The average rise and decline figures exclude percentage changes for (1) the periods December 1968-March 1969 and July-December 1971 because of abnormalities in the data due to effects of dock strikes and (2) periods when negligible changes (zero percent) in the level of exports/imports occurred:

EXPLANATION OF STATISTICS

Import Statistics

General imports are a combination of entries for immediate consumption and entries into bonded warehouses. Imports for consumption are a combination of entries for immediate consumption and withdrawals from warehouses for consumption.

The dollar value shown in the import statistics is defined generally as the market value in the foreign country and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight charges from the foreign country to the United States, and insurance. Value information is required to be reported on import entries in accordance with Sections 402 and 402a of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended. None of the values have been adjusted for changes in price level.

It is the objective of the compiling procedures to include shipments, insofar as practicable, in the statistics for the month of import, which is based on the filing date of the import entry or warehouse withdrawal document.[1] However, because of processing problems, there has always been a carryover of a small percentage of items from the actual month of importation to a subsequent month, usually the succeeding month. The carryover should have little effect on month-to-month comparisons of overall totals, since the carryover of the previous month should compensate roughly for that of the following month.

Export Statistics

Exports of domestic merchandise include commodities which are grown, produced, or manufactured in the United States, and commodities of foreign origin which have been changed in the United States from the form in which they were imported, or which have been enhanced in value by further manufacture in the United States. Exports of foreign merchandise include commodities of foreign origin which have entered the United States as imports and which, at the time of exportation, are in substantially the same condition as when imported.

The dollar value shown in the export statistics is defined generally as the f.a.s. value at the U.S. port of exportation. These values have not been adjusted for changes in price level.

In general, compiling procedures provide for the inclusion of shipments in the statistics for the month of export.[2] However, as indicated above for imports, because of processing problems there has always been a carryover of a small percentage of shipments from their actual month of shipment to a subsequent month, usually the following month. The statement above regarding the effect of the import carryover generally applies to exports also.

Revisions to the Statistics

Revisions are carried into the statistics on a periodic basis. Data for 1972 and 1973 appearing in the 1973 monthly issues of this report are presented as follows:

1973 Statistics

a. January through November 1973 issues: figures are as originally issued, except as noted below.

b. December 1973 issue: figures reflect revisions for prior months of the year issued with December 1973 statistics.

1972 Statistics

a. January through May 1973 issues: figures reflect revisions issued with December 1972 statistics or earlier.

b. June through December 1973 issues: figures reflect revisions to 1972 data issued with June 1973 statistics.

In addition to the revisions which are made on a periodic basis, instances may occur where a significant error in the statistics for a month of the current year is discovered after the statistics for that month are compiled. If the error is of sufficient importance to require correction prior to the time that the regular revisions are carried, the correction is made and so noted in this report.

Sources of Further Information

Additional information regarding foreign trade statistics coverage, valuation, etc., is contained in the following publications: Report FT990, Highlights of U.S. Export and Import Trade; FT135, U.S. Imports, General and Consumption, Schedule A Commodity by Country; FT410, U.S. Exports, Schedule B Commodity by Country; and the Guide to Foreign Trade Statistics. Information regarding additional sources of statistics, the methodology used in seasonally adjusting the data, and other matters relating to foreign trade statistics may be obtained from the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

[1] For shipments by vessel, merchandise is not included in the statistics prior to the date of formal entrance of the vessel (i.e., the date of the inward customs manifest for the vessel).

[2] With minor exceptions, the date of export for shipments other than by mail is the date when the shipment leaves the United States, or, in the case of vessel or air shipments, the date when the carrier departs (or is cleared) from the port of export. For mail shipments, the date of export is considered to be the date of mailing.
